Definition Procedures

Definition procedures (which are usually contained in resources such as the 'WDEF' or 'CDEF' resources) have an ID range limited to 12 bits (0 through 4095). The system software's own definition procedures, which are located in the System file, have resource IDs from 0 through 127. Your definition procedures should have IDs in the range 128 through 4095.